

The “Building” Block

The records that the network accepts are added to a block. Each block contains a unique code called a hash. It also contains the hash of the previous block in the chain.

This hash thing, that's secure somehow?